PRESENTATION

Leading the Office of the National Ombudsman (PFDC) in an effective and efficient manner requires, in first place, the formation of a dedicated team of members and employees whose guidelines are the protection of human rights and the defense of the democratic rule of law.

We are more than 200 people directly involved in this network of attention and care, mainly for the most vulnerable. The convergence of purposes makes us stronger, even more so in the period of setback seen in several areas in recent years, which requires attentive and permanent dialogue in the fight for a more egalitarian, solidary and fraternal country.

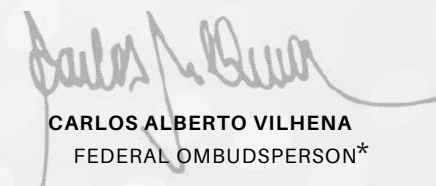

International and constitutional instruments to which the Brazilian State has adhered must guide conduct within the scope of protection, respect and promotion of citizens' rights. In the current situation, we realize that Brazilian society still has numerous challenges in the area of human rights defense. In order to achieve these objectives, the engagement of public authorities, social sectors and citizens themselves is fundamental for us to progress as a society. We have a rich, multiethnic and vibrant culture, which embraces different colors, beliefs and people.

The integration and recognition of all this diversity will serve to evolve towards a culture of human rights and a nation with quality services and dignity for all. For this, our work has also focused on the dissemination of information and the generation of knowledge that, in some way and to some extent, precipitate positive social transformations in the Brazilian reality with concrete actions in favor of citizens, regardless of their color, race, gender, sexual orientation, religion. Technical analysis and protection of the values that shape the Democratic State of Law have guided our manifestations in PFDC.

PFDC's areas of action are diverse and complex. Among the body's various agendas are the migratory crisis, the fight against homotransphobia and racism, the defense of women's rights, human rights at the corporate level, freedom of expression, adequate food, the forced disappearance of people and the promotion of human rights.

In order to analyze them in the necessary depth, we have involved representatives of civil society, social movements and, mainly, academics. Technical foundations and scientific knowledge have been the basis of PFDC's work for an edifying dialogue with Brazilian society. Only with this type of cooperation will we be able to build the nation envisioned by the 1988 Constitution.

Our sincere thanks to the members of the PFDC System for their vigilant and incessant work in the search for solutions that remedy or prevent human rights violations throughout Brazil. And, since our management has developed throughout the context of the pandemic, our solidarity with the families and friends of the victims of Covid-19.

1. STRENGTHENING THE PFDC SYSTEM

During the 2020-2022 term, we strengthened the concept of the PFDC System, thus understood as a national network for the defense of human rights composed of the union of members of the MP, who work in an articulated way to contribute to the construction of a society freer, fairer and more solidary. The performance of the PFDC System is based on dialogue and interaction with State bodies, international organizations and representatives of civil society, with the aim of guaranteeing, protecting and promoting the fundamental rights of the Brazilian population. Its central body is the PFDC, which has the Naops, the PRDCs, the WGs and the TRs.

In this line, it was very important to hand over to PFDC the attribution of reviewing promotions for the shelving of extrajudicial procedures based on the conclusion of the Conduct Adjustment Term (TAC). This return – defined by the Prosecutor General of the Republic through Ordinance nº 841/2020/PGR/MPF – allowed us to work on the dissemination, throughout the national territory, of good practices based on the performance of colleagues from MPF. We encourage, for example, the adoption of initiatives aimed at improving accessibility equipment for people with disabilities when boarding and disembarking at airports; the punishment, in the civil and administrative spheres, of agents involved in human rights violations during the period of the Military Dictatorship; the investigation of violations of the rights to life and health with regard to events such as the Soccer America Cup in the context of the Covid19 pandemic; the adoption of measures that guarantee land regularization; the minimum reservation of vacancies for black candidates and people with disabilities in Federal Institutes of Education.

Within the scope of coordination initiatives, we carried out work visits to the five Naops, which are responsible for reviewing promotions for archiving and decisions to decline allocation, in addition to settling allocation conflicts within the respective region.

Another achievement registered in this administration was the return of the PFDC to the National Human Rights Council (CNDH). In November 2021, the Federal Ombudsman was designated as the replacement for the Prosecutor General of the Republic at CNDH. The participation of PFDC in the council allows for a more effective contribution of the PFDC System in the defense of citizenship and human rights.

1. STRENGTHENING THE PFDC SYSTEM

Defining priorities and coordinating actions in matters so dear to society, such as human rights, is not an easy task, especially in a country of continental dimensions and so unequal. For planning the 2020-2022 biennium, the definition of topics to be addressed by the WGs and TRs took place based on a national online consultation with members of the PFDC System from across the country, held in June 2020 - one month after the beginning of the new management, which occurred at the beginning of the Covid-19 pandemic. The aim was to choose, in a democratic and participatory way, the social problems that most needed PFDC's attention. All contemplated themes had been worked on in previous years, directly or indirectly. Others emerged, occupying the main focus of debates and initiatives, such as the defense of the LGBTI+ population (Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Transgender, Intersexual), women, the elderly and the population in street situation, as well as access to high cost medicines and the fight against human trafficking.

The members of the WGs and TRs have dedicated themselves, on a voluntary basis, to studying the issues in depth, with the involvement of experts and public authorities who deal with the issues. They identify and technically support requests for information from various public bodies made directly by the Federal Ombudsman - which encouraged, during the period, the identification of effective practices to be replicated through the launch of coordinated actions; the promotion of knowledge through webinars; and inter-institutional cooperation in favor of guaranteeing, defending and promoting fundamental rights. There was also monitoring of the humanitarian crisis experienced by Venezuelans, which has impacted the Brazilian population, mainly in the North Region.

During the period, an outstanding initiative in the promotion of human rights was the Citizenship Encounters Project, which brought together specialists to discuss topics relevant to Brazilian society. In two years, 30 virtual events were organized, which recorded more than 20,000 views. All webinars are available on the PFDC YouTube Channel (www.youtube.com/pfdcmpf88) and some on major podcast platforms (<https://anchor.fm/pfdcmpf>).

The inauguration of the photo gallery of the body's holders marked the celebration of PFDC's 29th anniversary, representing an act of gratitude and recognition to all the people who helped build the PFDC.

1.1 PERFORMANCE HIGHLIGHTS

Migration crisis

The migratory crisis has been accompanied by the PFDC System, notably with regard to the cut of resources for the Operação Acolhida, conducted by the Brazilian Army since 2018, in the cities of Manaus (AM), Boa Vista and Pacaraima (RR). The Federal Ombudsman has been to the North Region four times, interacting with various actors responsible for the reception of Venezuelan, indigenous and non-indigenous migrants and refugees. In addition, he worked with the National Refugee Committee (Conare), of the Ministry of Justice and Public Security (MJSP), to analyze the ordinance that prevented Venezuelans from entering Brazil, in the context of the Covid-19 pandemic. In 2021, an event was held on Immigrant Day - June 25 -, addressing topics such as structural xenophobia. Together with the Auschwitz Institute for the Prevention of Genocide and Mass Atrocities, members of PFDC met to discuss the results of research that focused on the situation of young Venezuelan migrants in Boa Vista. The PFDC System also acted in the humanitarian crisis in Afghanistan, with regard to the reception of refugees.

Humanized service

In February 2021, PFDC participated in the renewal of the collaboration term for the protection of migrants who were not admitted at Guarulhos airport, in São Paulo, originally signed in 2019. The agreement created conditions for humanized service for migrants arriving in Brazil through that airport, but not admitted into the country. In 2020, 297 people had been assisted by services established from this collaboration term.

The ceremony was attended by signatories of the document, including representatives of PFDC, the National Secretariat of Justice (SNJ) of the Ministry of Justice (MJSP), the Federal Public Defender's Office (DPU), the City Hall of Guarulhos and the High Commission of Nations Nations for Refugees (UNHCR).

Citizenship Encounters Project

Since November 2020, PFDC has been promoting webinars, seeking to strengthen the citizen's rights defense network, disseminate knowledge and foster citizenship. In May 2022, the Citizenship Encounters Project reached the mark of 31 virtual events organized. The core of the project is to promote debates with human rights experts, jurists and academics. Several topics have already been discussed: protection of human rights at all links in the production chain, socio-environmental accountability, transitional justice, large enterprises, mining, uberization of the economy, international treaties and the global agenda, violence against women, adequate nutrition, among others. Available on the PFDC YouTube Channel, the contents of the webinars have been converted into podcasts, to be heard on audio platforms. The first season dealt with Human Rights and Business.

Combating homotransphobia

PFDC joined the "Eu Sou Respeito" campaign, created by the PRDC in Rio Grande do Sul. Commemorative dates have been used to promote awareness among citizens about respect for the LGBTI+ population. Within the scope of the Citizenship Encounters Project, a webinar was held on the fight against homotransphobia, based on decisions of the Federal Supreme Court (STF) so that homophobic and transphobic behaviors are framed in the typification of the Racism Law, until there is a specific law on the subject. Representatives of the Justice System discussed STF decisions in the Direct Action of Unconstitutionality by Omission (ADO) n° 26 and in the Writ of Injunction (MI) n° 4,733, aiming to understand them and propose solutions to overcome the challenges that separate them from practical application. Together with representatives of the LGBTI+ National Alliance and the Center for Human Rights, PFDC discussed actions for the dissemination of rights already achieved by the LGBTI+ population, such as the adoption of children by same-sex couples, marriage of homosexual people, blood donation and criminalization of homotransphobia. The so-called Fulfillment Project, proposed by these entities, aims to promote and disseminate the content of Supreme Court decisions concerning citizenship and human rights of the Brazilian LGBTQIA+ population.

Combating Racism

Police lethality is one of the topics covered by the PFDC Racial Discrimination Combat and Promotion of Racial Equality WG. In addition to promoting a public hearing that discussed proposals for changes related to the fight against structural racism, the PFDC System has followed the Claim of Non-compliance with Fundamental Precept (ADPF) nº 635, which deals with the carrying out of police operations in communities in Rio de Janeiro during the pandemic. In a public hearing promoted by STF, PFDC presented contributions related to the rigorous training of police officers in human rights, starting with the leaders, and the execution of activities within the strict limits imposed by the principle of proportionality. PFDC also participated in discussions on a permanent agenda of actions aimed at confronting structural racism in commercial establishments. One of them addressed the realization of professional training programs aimed exclusively at black and brown people, by the company Magazine Luiza. Another document dealt with the death of João Alberto Silveira Freitas, on the eve of Black Consciousness Day, in 2020, beaten to death on the premises of the Carrefour supermarket, in Porto Alegre (RS).

In a joint effort with the Woman, Child, Adolescent and the Elderly: Protection of Rights WG, Public Note No. 4/2021 highlighted the National Day of Tereza de Benguela and Black Women, established by Law No. 12,987/2014, and celebrated annually on July 25th, inspired by the International Day of AfroLatin-Caribbean Women. It highlighted the struggle of black women against gender oppression, exploitation and racism, especially in the field of representative democracy. It stressed the urgency of building a public policy suited for the new times.

In January of this year, Brazil finally promulgated the Inter-American Convention against Racism, Racial Discrimination and Related Intolerance. The approval took place after the issuance of Public Note No. 6/2021, prepared by the PFDC, in November 2021, which defended the conclusion of the process of internalization of the convention, signed by Brazil in 2013. Ratified in May 2021, the rule needed to be enacted by presidential decree to have full legal effect. The convention is considered by the MPF to be an important instrument to combat religious intolerance, with a view to dealing with the matter and defining it for legal purposes.

Institutional dialogues

The Federal Ombudsman visited the five Naops in order to intensify dialogue with their members. On the agenda, organizational strengthening and the construction of an agenda of initiatives aimed at increasing and defending human rights. At the meetings, Vilhena highlighted the change made through Ordinance No. 841/2020/PGR/MPF, which returned the review of filing promotions based on the conclusion of TACs to the Ombudsman. He explained that the intention was to allow the dissemination of good practices by members of all states, as in the case of the TAC that brought improvements related to the accessibility of people with disabilities when boarding and disembarking at airports, which initiated a coordinated action of PFDC. He also highlighted the investments made in improving management information based on the development of business intelligence (BI) tools to improve decision-making.

Defense of the democratic order

The Federal Ombudsman signed a memorandum of understanding, in December 2021, with the National Council for Human Rights (CNDH), the National Defender of Human Rights (DNDH) and the Commission on Human Rights and Minorities of the Chamber of Deputies (CDHM-CD). The group has been meeting to discuss actions and initiatives that can be carried out together to guarantee clean, safe, fair and democratic elections. A result of this work is the cooperation agreement with the Superior Electoral Court (TSE). The purpose of the partnership is to define measures and projects that can be carried out jointly to face disinformation in the electoral process and to strengthen confidence in electoral institutions.

1.2 COORDINATED ACTIONS

Architectural accessibility

Two coordinated actions on the subject. The first encourages the celebration of TACs with public service concessionaires, in order to guarantee better accessibility conditions for people with disabilities when boarding and arriving at airports. The second exhorts PRDCs to carry out an initiative in the same direction with public and private higher education institutions, aiming at the implementation of legal accessibility requirements, as well as the payment of compensation for collective moral damages, with explicit rules regarding the allocation of resources.

Assessment of damages to fundamental rights

Suggestion to the PRDCs of the states of Goiás, Mato Grosso, Rio de Janeiro and São Paulo to investigate possible practices that violate, especially, the rights to life and health, caused by people and legal organizers, broadcasters and sponsors of the Copa America Male Soccer 2021.

Reservation of vacancies for black and disabled candidates

Aims to ensure the effectiveness of the reservation of vacancies in public tenders for black candidates and candidates with disabilities, under the terms of the legislation in force and the jurisprudence of STF regarding the matter.

Land regularization programs (Titula Brasil)

Encourages the adoption of measures that guarantee compliance with the principles of public administration, recognition of traditional territories and respect for the constitutional allocation of federal public lands.

Inapplicability of the Amnesty Law

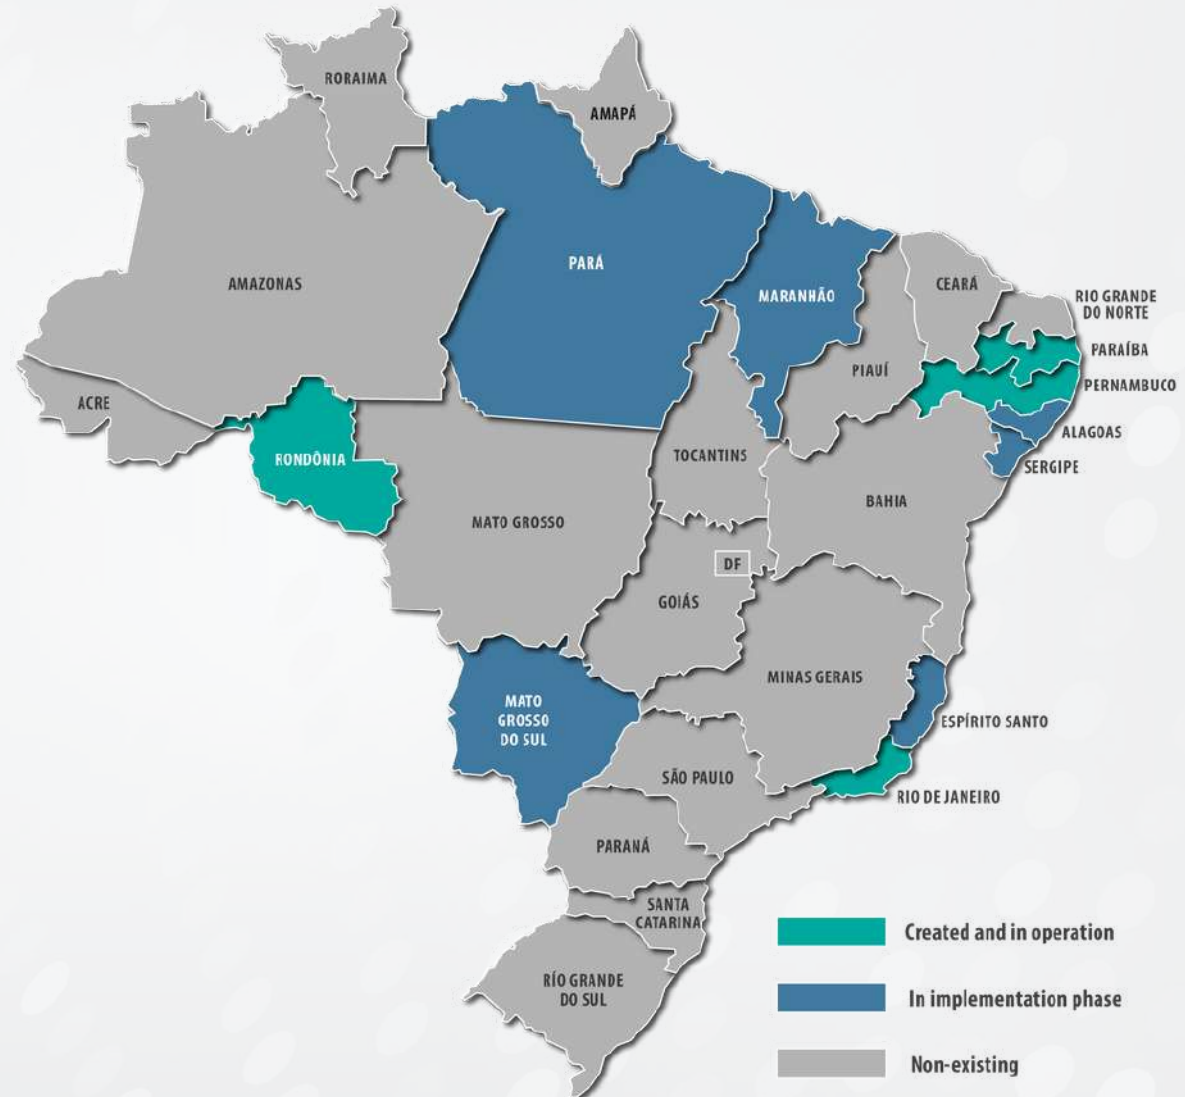

Seeks to identify and punish, in the civil and administrative spheres, agents involved in human rights violations during the dictatorship period (1964-1985). The initiative aims to comply with the effects of the decision issued by the Superior Court of Justice (STJ) in Special Appeal 1836862/SP, which deals with the inapplicability of the Amnesty Law (Law 6683/1979) to these types of actions.

Implementation of bodies to prevent and combat torture

Encourages PRDCs in 21 states and the Federal District (DF), with the engagement of other public bodies and institutions, to celebrate TACs for the implementation of local committees and mechanisms to prevent and combat torture (Law No. 12,847/2013). The coordinated action seeks to honor the commitment assumed in article 3 of the Optional Protocol to the United Nations Convention against Torture and other Cruel, Inhuman or Degrading Treatment.

In February 2022, during a meeting with members of the National Council of Attorneys General (CNPJ), Carlos Alberto Vilhena, the Federal Ombudsman, highlighted the importance of the joint work of the Brazilian MP to strengthen the National System for the Prevention and Combat of Torture (SNPCT).

Recommendation n° 1/2021/PFDC/MPF - proposes that MEC refrain from publishing any act or order that determines that the leaders of federal institutions of higher education take measures to prevent and punish supposedly “party-political” acts.

Representation n° 5/2020/PFDC/MPF - sustains the occurrence of an act of administrative impropriety against Sérgio Camargo, president of the Palmares Cultural Foundation, and Marco Frenette, general coordinator of the National Center for Information and Reference of Black Culture.

3. WORKING GROUPS AND THEMATIC REPORTS

PFDC System's integrated, coordinated and institutionalized action was the main purpose of this management, with the improvement of work routines in the search for better results for society. The 2020-2022 biennium was marked by the strengthening of PFDC System. During the period, this network in defense of human rights gained new members, increasing from 70 to 152 members of MPU and of State MPs.

Joint work intensified actions in defense of democracy, which must be based on justice, peace and the different manifestations of the right to freedom. In this sense, PFDC sought to build understandings, collectively, regarding the most diverse themes with which human rights are related.

Divided into 13 WGs and two RTs, the members have been working on issues related to the migratory crisis, the fight against homotransphobia and racism, the defense of women's rights, human rights at the corporate level, freedom of expression, adequate food, the forced disappearance of people and the promotion of human rights, among others.

In this context, the composition valued the dedication of each attorney to only one of the WGs and RTs, with a view to ensuring full participation in debates and studies of the topics to which they are urged to express themselves. Even so, each member can contribute to all discussions involving PFDC's activities, due to the thematic transversality of human rights. It is important to point out that the work of these members at PFDC is voluntary.

The contribution of each member makes PFDC a stronger institution in the defense of citizens' rights.

3.1 RACIAL DISCRIMINATION COMBAT AND PROMOTION OF RACIAL EQUALITY

WORKGROUP 1 (WG1)

Guidelines

Racism is one of the central problems of Brazilian society. Slave activity developed during Brazil as a colony and Brazil as an empire left indelible marks on the reality of the black population. Untying the knot of racial inequality is, or should be, one of the most important objectives of the Republic. Despite legal and social advances, statistics show that abuses against black and brown people in Brazil continue with alarming force.

The WG has focused on this problem. Currently, the group acts to strengthen public policies to protect and promote racial equality, as well as to recognize the social and cultural contribution of the black population in Brazil. In addition, it also works to combat exclusionary or repressive practices or public policies that harm individuals or groups based on their race, ethnicity, nationality and religion, or other related social categories, and makes suggestions for improvements in the implementation of the Racial Equality Statute (Law nº 12.288/2010).

3.2 LAND REFORM AND LAND CONFLICTS

WORKING GROUP 2 (WG2)

Guidelines

The latifundium has been a Brazilian reality since colonial times. Already in 1534, under the auspices of the Portuguese reign, there was the first donation of large plots of land to private individuals, under the condition of planting in the given place, known as sesmaria. This practice remained until 1850, with the approval of the Land Law during the reign of D. Pedro II. The Land Law itself maintained the stimulus for land concentration in the hands of a few landowners, creating difficulties for small farmers to access land. The echoes of that legislation reverberate to the present day.

According to the 2017 agricultural census, published by IBGE, rural establishments with an area equal to or greater than 1,000 hectares represented only 1% of all properties in the countryside. However, they accounted for 47% of the total area used. This contrasted with rural properties of less than 10 hectares, which made up 50% of all properties, but occupy only 2% of the exploited rural area in Brazil.

The disparity in the distribution and use of rural land has been accompanied by conflicts in the countryside, one of the great problems of the Brazilian reality accompanied by the WG Agrarian Reform and Land Conflicts. Thus, it acts in the monitoring of public policies capable of facing these issues and presents legal subsidies for the implementation of agrarian reform, in addition to preventing and combating violence in the countryside.

As of May 2022, PFDC filed an administrative proceeding to accompany the Argument of Non-Compliance with a Fundamental Precept (ADPF) nº 828, which suspended administrative or judicial measures that resulted in dislodgement, evictions, forced removals or repossession of vulnerable populations since a state of public calamity was established due to the Covid-19 pandemic.

Launch of the Agrarian Reform and Formalization of Access to Land Guide, with basic information on the different possibilities for formalizing access to land within the scope of agrarian reform, in the light of the 1988 Constitution and the governing legislation. The material brings the regulations related to the theme, clarifies the forms of regularization of rural properties in the agrarian reform and describes the instruments used, such as the concession of use contract (CCU), the concession of real right of use (CDRU) and the domain title.

PFDC forwarded to the PRDCs Recommendations nº 6 and nº 7, of 2020, written by the Holder of the 2nd Office of the PRDC in Araguaína (TO). In them, INCRA was urged to no longer postpone inspections of rural properties registered in the name of the Union, in view of analyzing the availability of using these lands in agrarian reform settlements. PFDC suggested that prosecutors in the rest of the country adopt a similar procedure in similar cases.

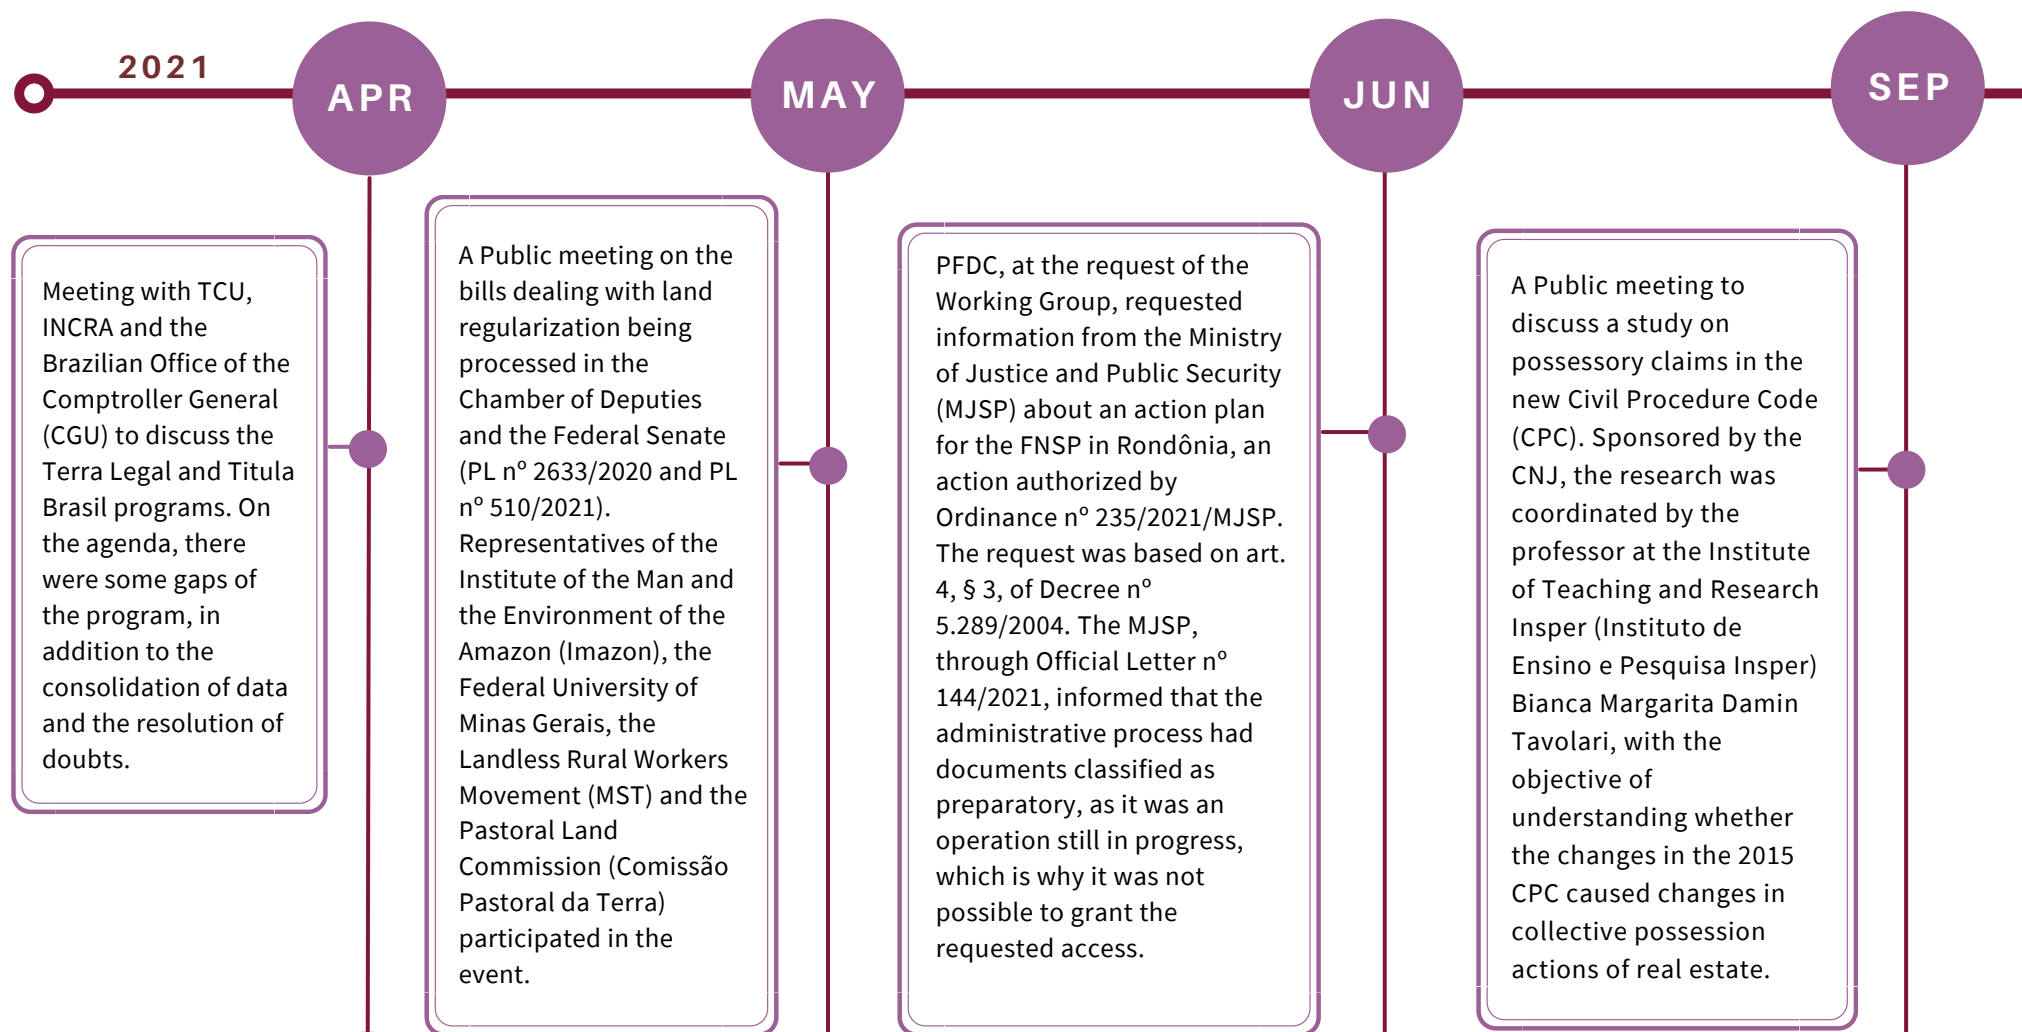

MAR

Members of the Working Group and the Federal Court of Accounts – Brazil (TCU) met to discuss Decision nº 727/2020/TCU. At the time, the group aimed to understand how the technical area of the Court of Accounts observed the execution of the aforementioned decision about problems in the Terra Legal Program. This contact resulted from the mismatch between the Court's recommendations and the actions taken by the Executive.

PFDC recommended that PRDCs adopt, when applicable, a similar procedure to ACP nº 1000430-69.2021.4.01.3803, presented by the PRDC in Uberlândia (MG) to the 3rd Civil and Criminal Federal Court of the respective Judicial Subsection. The ACP "aims to guarantee to the families of rural workers who live in the Maringá/Monte Castelo Settlement Project the implementation of the right to land, housing, work and a dignified life [...] keeping in that place families who have been carrying out works and services for two decades in a property without land regularization".

3.3 PREVENTION AND COMBAT OF TORTURE

WORKING GROUP 3 (WG 3)

Guidelines

The practice of torture permeates Brazilian history. It is present in the harsh physical punishments applied to slaves; in the lashes inflicted on sailors in the early 20th century; in the tortures suffered by opponents of the Getúlio Vargas Government, or by antagonists to the military regime in force in the 60s and 80s of the last century. It is an ancient and well-known evil in our society.

The 1988 Constitution prohibits torture under any circumstances. In addition, in 1997, Law n° 9.455 was passed, criminalizing the practice and defining penalties of up to 21 years for those who commit it.

Despite this, torture continues to be applied by State agents. There are numerous cases of violence against suspects during police arrests, or even against prisoners in state custody. In an attempt to remedy this situation, and to honor its commitment to the UN, Brazil created the National System for the Prevention and Combat of Torture (SNPCT), through Law n° 12.847/2013. The SNPCT seeks to create state mechanisms to combat torture and other degrading treatments.

In this context, the Prevention and Combat of Torture Working Group has as a guideline to act in the improvement of the SNPCT, especially for the creation and implementation in all federative states of the State Mechanism for the Prevention and Combat of Torture (MEPCT). The creation of a state committee and mechanisms was even the object of a coordinated action that urged dozens of PRDCs to promote Conduct Adjustment Terms (TACs) with local governments and other public bodies.

3.4 MIGRATION AND REFUGE

WORKING GROUP 4 (WG4)

Guidelines

Today human movements occur on a scale never seen before. Whether motivated by political issues, economic reasons or natural disasters, millions of people cross borders in search of better living conditions. According to the International Organization for Migration (IOM), there were 281 million international migrants around the globe in 2020. This is equivalent to the sum of the populations of Brazil and France.

A significant part of international migrants are victims of humanitarian tragedies, needing to seek refuge outside their home countries. It is up to host nations to look for the best ways to help these people. Brazil has stood out especially in welcoming Venezuelan, Syrian and Congolese refugees, according to UNHCR. In 2018, the Federal Government launched Operação Acolhida, an initiative aimed at helping the large number of people from Venezuela, who were fleeing the difficult social, political and economic conditions of that country. The year 2021 ended with 287,000 Venezuelan refugees regularized under the operation.

Thus, the Migration and Refuge WG provided technical support on regulations that deal with the closing of borders. In addition, it has followed up and monitored the continuity of Operação Acolhida, in order to keep it in line with the principles and rules that govern the matter.

3.5 EDUCATION AND HUMAN RIGHTS

WORKING GROUP 5 (WG5)

Guidelines

Education, a right of all and a duty of the State and the family, will be promoted and encouraged with the collaboration of society, aiming at the full development of the person, their preparation for the exercise of citizenship and their qualification for work. This is how art. 205 of the Federal Constitution states it.

Since the advent of the Citizen Constitution, Brazil has made progress in reducing illiteracy. According to the Brazilian Institute of Geography and Statistics (IBGE), in 1988, 18.9% of people aged 15 or over, around 17 million Brazilians could not read or write. In 2019, this percentage decreased to 6.6% or 11 million people. Despite the significant reduction, the number of illiterates is still expressive.

Added to this is the fact that the educational system faces serious difficulties in the formation of young people in primary education. In 2018, the International Student Assessment Program (Pisa) indicated that 43% of 15-year-old Brazilian students were below the minimum level of proficiency in reading, mathematics and science. The average for the countries of the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD), the entity that organizes the test, was 13% in this regard.

The Education and Human Rights WG aims to subsidize the work of PFDC, with regard to sensitive issues related to the protection and promotion of a public, democratic, plural, secular, universal, humanized and qualified education.

3.6 PERSONS WITH DISABILITIES

WORKING GROUP 6 (WG6)

Guidelines

The Federal Constitution establishes that the three spheres of public power are responsible for taking care of health and providing public assistance, as well as the protection and guarantees of persons with disabilities. In addition, the constitutional text, in several points, establishes the need for social integration of the disabled population, in order to guarantee them the possibility of a life with dignity, productivity and welfare.

According to IBGE, 8.4% of Brazilians over 2 years of age had some type of disability in 2019. This corresponds to more than 17 million people, which is equivalent to the population of the state of Rio de Janeiro. The Persons with Disabilities WG's guideline is to promote and defend the full and equitable exercise of all human rights and fundamental freedoms of this population, with an emphasis on fighting any form of discrimination (Decree nº 6.949/2009), as well as respecting its inclusion (Law nº 13.146/2015) and accessibility (Decree nº 5.296/2004).

The group's work has involved a survey with Federal Universities and Federal Institutes to verify the effective implementation of inclusive education centers. In addition, the WG wrote Technical Note Nº 3/2021 on the unconstitutionality and unconventionality of Decree nº 10.502/2020, which opened the possibility of segregating students with disabilities in schools or classes apart from those established in regular education.

3.7 MEMORY AND TRUTH

WORKING GROUP 7 (WG7)

Guidelines

The Military Dictatorship installed in Brazil between 1964 and 1985 had as main characteristics the violent repression of its opponents – including the use of torture and murder – the curtailment of individual liberties and guarantees, in addition to the erosion of democracy.

There were at least 20.000 people tortured during the period. The National Truth Commission (CNV) recognized, in 2014, the death of 224 people and the disappearance of another 210 by State agents during those 21 years. More than a thousand bones of victims of the dictatorship, discovered in the clandestine cemetery of Perus, in São Paulo, await identification.

The crimes perpetrated by the State during the military regime are one of the darkest chapters in Brazilian history, and cannot be forgotten. Volkswagen in Brasil, for example, cooperated with the military regime established here. It collaborated with political repression, including from a financial point of view, even helping in the temporary disappearance of some of its employees. In view of this scenario, the Memory and Truth WG aims to act in compliance with Law nº 9.140/1995 (Special Commission on Political Deaths and Disappearances - CEMDP), Law Nº 10.559/2002 (Amnesty Commission) and Law nº 12.528/2011 (National Truth Commission). The WG has worked on cases involving the disappearance of children during the period of the Military Dictatorship, the promotion of places of memory in the country and the inapplicability of the Amnesty Law in the civil and administrative spheres, in cases of serious violations of human rights.

3.8 LGBTQIA+ POPULATION: PROTECTION OF RIGHTS

WORKING GROUP 8 (WG8)

Guidelines

The Brazilian Association of Gays, Lesbians, Bisexuals, Transvestites and Transsexuals estimates the LGBTI+ population in Brazil at 18 million people. This represents 8.4% of the total population of the country, but this is an imprecise figure, as there are no official numbers that capture the variety of gender cuts that exist today.

Although crimes of homophobia and transphobia were considered imprescriptible and non-bailable by STF in 2019, Brazil is a country where there is strong prejudice regarding people's sexual orientation and gender. This is reflected in repeated cases of verbal, psychological and physical violence against the LGBTQIA+ population.

Our country is at the top of the ranking of the nations that kill the most transgender people in the world. According to the organization Transgender Europe (TGEU), of the 375 murders of trans people that took place in 2021, 125, or a third of the global total, took place here.

It is, therefore, increasingly necessary to build protective devices for these people. In this way, the LGBTI+ Population: Protection of Rights WG works to promote and defend the citizenship and human rights of the lesbian, gay, bisexual, transvestite, transsexual, intersexual and other sexual orientations, gender identities and expressions.

3.9 WOMAN, CHILD, ADOLESCENT AND ELDERLY: PROTECTION OF RIGHTS

WORKING GROUP 9 (WG9)

Guidelines

Women, children, adolescents and the elderly form a peculiar segment of the Brazilian population, due to their positions of vulnerability in society. All these categories received special legislative attention, in order to provide them with greater protection against the threats present in the Brazilian social arrangement.

The Maria da Penha Law, the Child and Adolescent Statute (ECA), as well as the Elderly Statute are the most relevant examples of norms used to protect these groups in our society. These three laws – and others – show themselves as a civilizing mark in our society. Although constantly infringed, its existence allows advances in the care of people who, for circumstantial reasons, are unable to protect themselves.

Faced with these hypervulnerabilities, the Woman, Child, Adolescent and Elderly: Protection of Rights WG was created, with the aim of strengthening public policies for these groups, including fighting violence in its various forms, monitoring the use of resources from the National Fund for the Rights of Children and Adolescents and the activities of the National Council for the Rights of Children and Adolescents (Conanda).

PFDC has also been working towards the approval of the Draft Legislative Decree (PDC) n° 863/2017, which deals with the internalization of the Inter-American Convention on the Protection of the Human Rights of the Elderly.

Propagation of Technical Note n° 5/2021/PFDC/MPF on the partial use of telemedicine, only for the drug treatment stages and post-treatment follow-up in the case of voluntary termination of pregnancy due to rape. The document was forwarded to the PRDC, the Minister of Health, the director-president of the National Health Surveillance Agency (Anvisa) and the president of the Federal Council of Medicine (CFM).

Public Note n° 4/2021/PFDC/MPF in honor of the National Day of Tereza de Benguela and the Black Woman, established by Law n° 12.987/2014, and celebrated annually on July 25, inspired by the International Day of Afro-Latin-Caribbean Women. The note, produced in conjunction with the Racial Discrimination Combat and Promotion of Racial Equality WG, highlighted the struggle of black women against gender oppression, exploitation and racial discrimination, especially in the field of representative democracy. The document highlighted the urgency of a public policy suited for the new times, which prevents setbacks and provides an increase in the number of candidacies from black people, especially black women, who wish to see themselves represented in these spaces of power.

Establishment of an administrative procedure for monitoring the socio-educational system, the policies and inspection of resources and the policies related to professionalization and inclusion in the labor market.

3.10 SOCIAL SECURITY AND POPULATION IN STREET SITUATIONS

WORKING GROUP 10 (WG10)

Guidelines

The concept of citizenship necessarily permeates the recognition and implementation of welfare rights regarding the Welfare State. From this premise, social security involves a broad protection system, provided for in art. 194 of the Federal Constitution, which requires public intervention to ensure the effectiveness of the rights to health, social security and social assistance for all who need it.

The presence of the State, through social security, is essential to reduce social inequalities. IBGE data shows that, in 2020, 12 million people lived in the extreme poverty line. One of the main evidences of this Brazilian social inequality is the reality of the homeless population. Estimates from the Institute for Applied Economic Research (IPEA) indicate that the homeless population increased by more than 140% between 2012 and 2020, from 92.000 people to 221.000 in this period.

Aware of the rights that involve the implementation of the Social State, the Social Security and Population in Street Situation WG works to guarantee access to health services, social security and assistance benefits, including emergency ones. It also contributes to the universalization of the civil registration of people, as well as to the reinforcement of public policies for the protection and promotion of the rights of the homeless population, including the fight against violence in its various forms.

PFDC sent official letters to the Ministry of Citizenship and IBGE requesting information regarding the homeless population in Brazil. In the request addressed to the Ministry of Citizenship, three aspects are mentioned. The first one aims to identify which bodies are directly dealing with the issue, as well as the current composition of these sectors, if any. Another point seeks to collect information on the latest quantitative and qualitative indicators, which should help in mapping the situation of the homeless population in Brazil. The last one aims to investigate the progress of existing federal government programs related to improving the living conditions of this population. All currently available data related to the issue were requested by PFDC to IBGE.

3.11 FREEDOMS: CONSCIENCE, BELIEF AND EXPRESSION

WORKING GROUP 11 (WG11)

Guidelines

Between 1964 and 1985, freedom of expression was severely curtailed by the Military Dictatorship in Brazil. Artistic works were censored, as were journalistic articles; popular demonstrations against the regime were violently repressed by security forces. With the end of the military period, the 1988 Constitution guaranteed everyone the right to freedom of expression, as well as free expression of conscience and belief.

The constitutional text presented itself as an undeniable advance in the field of freedoms, but, in practice, there are still problems to overcome. Hate speech and intolerance, amplified by the use of digital platforms, reprimands to social movements, and the consolidation of freedom of belief, remain a challenge in Brazil. The places of worship of religions of African origin are often depredated and their faithful attacked by members of other religious denominations.

The exercise of these freedoms requires extra care from society, which is why the Freedoms: Conscience, Belief and Expression WG encourages respect for religious, cultural and opinion diversity. Its main themes of action are the guarantee of freedom of assembly, manifestation and religion, above all, of African origin. The WG's focus is also on ways of fighting indirect censorship of teachers and students, in addition to defending freedom of the press.

PFDC recommended MEC that it refrain from issuing any act or order that determines the directors of Federal Institutions of Higher Education measures to prevent and punish allegedly “partisan-political” acts, similar to the revoked Circular Letter nº 4/2021/DIFES /SESU/ SESU-MEC, of February 7, 2021

The WG coordinator participated in the CDHM-CD, within the scope of the Parliamentary Observatory of the UPR. On the occasion, the participants examined compliance with the recommendations made to Brazil to guarantee the rights of free expression and organization. Among the topics covered were technical notes issued by PFDC that aim to contribute to respect for fundamental freedoms of democracy, such as freedom of the press, assembly and organization.

The Public Ethics Commission of the Federal Executive Branch complied with PFDC’s recommendation and sent a message to all federal public agents in which it emphasizes that exercising a position or function in the public service does not deprive its holders of the right to participate in debates involving collective life. According to PFDC, the establishment of administrative procedures cannot be used as an inhibiting effect on the free flow of ideas.

In a virtual meeting, the UPR Parliamentary Observatory verified Brazil's compliance with recommendations to guarantee the safety of human rights defenders. During participation in the meeting, the WG coordinator recalled that the Brazilian State is more than 14 years behind in the preparation of a plan that addresses the issue, defended as essential the participation of civil society in the preparation of the document. The protection of human rights defenders in Brazil is supported by Decree Nº 6.044/2007 and Decree Nº 9.937/2019.

PFDC promoted another cycle of webinars as part of the Citizenship Encounters Project. In the months of October and November, the theme Freedom of Expression was debated from four perspectives: hate speech, religious intolerance, press and academic freedom. The meetings took place on October 7 and 21, November 5 and 18.

PFDC asked the CNJ's Permanent Commission on Social Policies and Citizen Development to clarify the existence of a specific initiative or a resolution perspective to establish goals and/or actions to be triggered to obtain effective practical results, within the scope of the Judicial Branch, particularly with regard to the full exercise of religious freedoms by traditional, indigenous and terreiro communities.

In Public Note n° 6/2021/PFDC/MPF, PFDC defended the completion of the process of internalizing the Inter-American Convention against Racism, Racial Discrimination and Related Forms of Intolerance, together with the Racial Discrimination Combat and Promotion of Racial Equality WG. The aforementioned convention is considered an important instrument to combat religious intolerance, in view of the treatment of the matter and its definition for legal purposes.

An official letter was sent to the PGR requesting the propagation of Public Note n° 6/2021/PFDC/MPF to the members of the National Observatory on Environmental, Economic and Social Issues of High Complexity and Great Impact and Repercussion, established by Joint Ordinance n° 1/2019/CNMP/CNJ.

3.12 MENTAL HEALTH

WORKING GROUP 12 (WG12)

Guidelines

Until the last decades of the 20th century, being mentally ill in Brazil meant suffering in a cruel and inhuman asylum system. Psychiatric institutions operated as depots for people, in which patients were even tortured by caregivers. The hospitalized people did not receive adequate nutrition, nor did they have minimum hygiene conditions. They also did not receive adequate treatment for their mental illnesses, remaining prisoners for decades, if not dying, in these establishments.

Two cases have become emblematic of the treatment given to the mentally ill in Brazil. One at the Juqueri Psychiatric Hospital, in São Paulo, in which 50,000 patients died between 1960 and 1989, according to the Folha de S. Paulo newspaper. And the Hospital Colônia de Barbacena, in Minas Gerais, where another 60,000 patients died between 1930 and 1980, according to the book Brazilian Holocaust, by reporter Daniela Arbex.

After more than 20 years of struggles, in which mental health staff, patients and their families came together, Law nº 10.216/2001, also known as Psychiatric Reform Law, was approved and changed the treatment of psychiatric patients in the country.

In this context, the Mental Health WG works to promote and defend the rights of people with mental disorders, aiming to remove any and all forms of discrimination, especially with regard to race, color, sex, sexual orientation, religion, political option, nationality, age, family, economic resources and the degree of severity or time of evolution of their disorder, pursuant to Law nº 10.216, april 6 of 2001.

3.13 HUMAN RIGHTS AND BUSINESS

WORKING GROUP 13 (WG13)

Guidelines

Since the first industrial revolution, the introduction of machinery in production has triggered decisive changes in the way of life and work of workers. 16-hour workdays were common in early 19th century in English industries, according to writer Leo Huberman in his History of the Wealth of Man. Spinners spent 14 hours a day – in places where temperatures reached 29 degrees – without being able to get water to drink. In 1816, 7-year-old children worked 15 hours a day, standing, in degrading conditions, for paltry wages. Over the following centuries, labor movements demanded better working conditions, a circumstance that resulted in the recognition of social rights, especially labor rights. In the context of the evolution of human rights, pressure has increased for companies to start to be concerned with environmental and social issues, topics that go beyond the purely economic aspect

Despite this, the landslides of the Fundão dams (Mariana/MG) and the Córrego do Feijão Mine (Brumadinho/MG) are a landmark of how disrespect for human dignity results in catastrophe. Another example of impact is the exploitation of rock salt, in neighborhoods of Maceió (AL), by the petrochemical company Braskem, which caused the subsidence of the soil, destruction of properties and damage to the environment. On the other hand, internet giants such as Facebook are sometimes accused of violating the privacy of their users.

All the examples cited show the offensive potential of companies. In order to avoid such violations, the Human Rights and Business WG works to strengthen public policies aimed at preventing, mitigating and repairing adverse impacts of business on human rights. Among its priorities are the dissemination of knowledge on this topic in the justice system and in the corporate sphere, as well as regulations, including international ones, related to the subject.

WG restructuring

Opening of an administrative procedure in collaboration with Memory and Truth WG, to carry out surveys and investigations, in the MP or not, of companies, national or foreign, that were responsible for violations of rights that occurred during the period of the Military Dictatorship. The objective is to identify similar cases to the company Volkswagen do Brasil Indústria de Veículos Automotores Ltda.

CDHM-CD invited PFDC to participate in a meeting with the aim of debating action strategies regarding the social impacts caused by the Ford company's announcement about the end of activities at the factories located in Camaçari (BA) and Taubaté (SP). Representing the agency, a member of the WG highlighted that the issue goes beyond the field of labor rights, affecting various sectors of society. He stated that international human rights principles, as well as those of the International Labor Organization (ILO), are eventually being violated with Ford's decision.

PFDC defended, through Public Note nº 2/2021/PFDC/MPF, the urgency of ratifying an international agreement that guarantees mechanisms for access to information, public participation and protection of environmental activists. He stated that the issue requires commitment from the Executive and Legislative Branches. The note was shared with the Technical Secretariat of the Ibero-american Federation of Ombudsmen (FIO).

The coordinator of the Human Rights and Business WG participated in a public hearing of the CDHM-CD, which dealt with the UN recommendations, within the scope of the UPR, for Brazil to develop a National Action Plan on Business and Human Rights.

A coordinated action with the PRDCs of the Federal District and the states of Goiás, Mato Grosso, Rio de Janeiro and São Paulo was carried out to investigate possible acts of violation of fundamental rights and internationally assured human rights, especially the rights to life and health, on the part of the individuals and legal entities that organize, broadcast and sponsor the Copa América of men's football.

PFDC held a public hearing to discuss concepts, temporal and territorial frameworks, social participation, asymmetries in the repair process, resettlement and other issues related to people who are victims of the construction, installation, expansion, maintenance or rupture of dams. More than 20 people discussed the issue of the National Policy for People Affected by Dams (PNAB), object of PL nº 2.788/2019. The event is available on the PFDC Youtube Channel.

To mark World Food Day, the webinar "Violations of Human Rights by Food Sector Companies and the Action of the MP" took place on October 14th. One of the aspects discussed was hunger as a problem of distribution and not of food production. OCT

The WG coordinator participated in a public hearing at the CDHM-CD on the recommendations of the UN-UPR mechanism, especially to deal with comprehensive reparations in cases of failure of the Mariana and Brumadinho (MG) dams.

From April to July 2021, the WG promoted a cycle of 10 webinars, within the scope of the Citizenship Encounters Project, in which there was a debate on topics such as the process of elaborating the human rights and business treaty; financing by development promotion institutions; centrality of the victim's role; production chain and human rights due diligence; genre; uberization of the economy; human rights violations in the context of large enterprises; and corporate transitional justice.

PFDC sent Technical Note n° 1/2022/PFDC/MPF to the Federal Senate on PL N° 2.788/2019, which establishes the National Policy on the Rights of Populations Affected by Dams. The document was produced based on the analysis of contributions made by public authorities, academics, representatives of social movements and civil society collected during a public hearing held in September 2021. For PFDC, the PL meets, to a large extent, Brazilian society's desire for protection regarding losses and damages caused by the construction, operation, deactivation and rupture of dams. One of the merits of the PL is to treat the parties involved equitably and provide legal certainty to the issue. The document was sent to the president of the CD, the Federal Senate, the rapporteur of the project and the president of the Environment Commission.

Guidelines

The supply of medicines by the Unified Health System (SUS) is fixed by Law nº 8.080/1990, also known as the Organic Health Law. It is, therefore, a state obligation that should be fulfilled within certain parameters. The need for medicines and other health supplies leads many citizens to seek their supply from the State using the judicial route. Between 2008 and 2017, there was a 130% increase in lawsuits related to this topic, according to the survey “Judicialization of Health in Brazil: Profile of Demands, Causes and Solution Proposals”, carried out by the Institute of Teaching and Research Insper, in partnership with the CNJ.

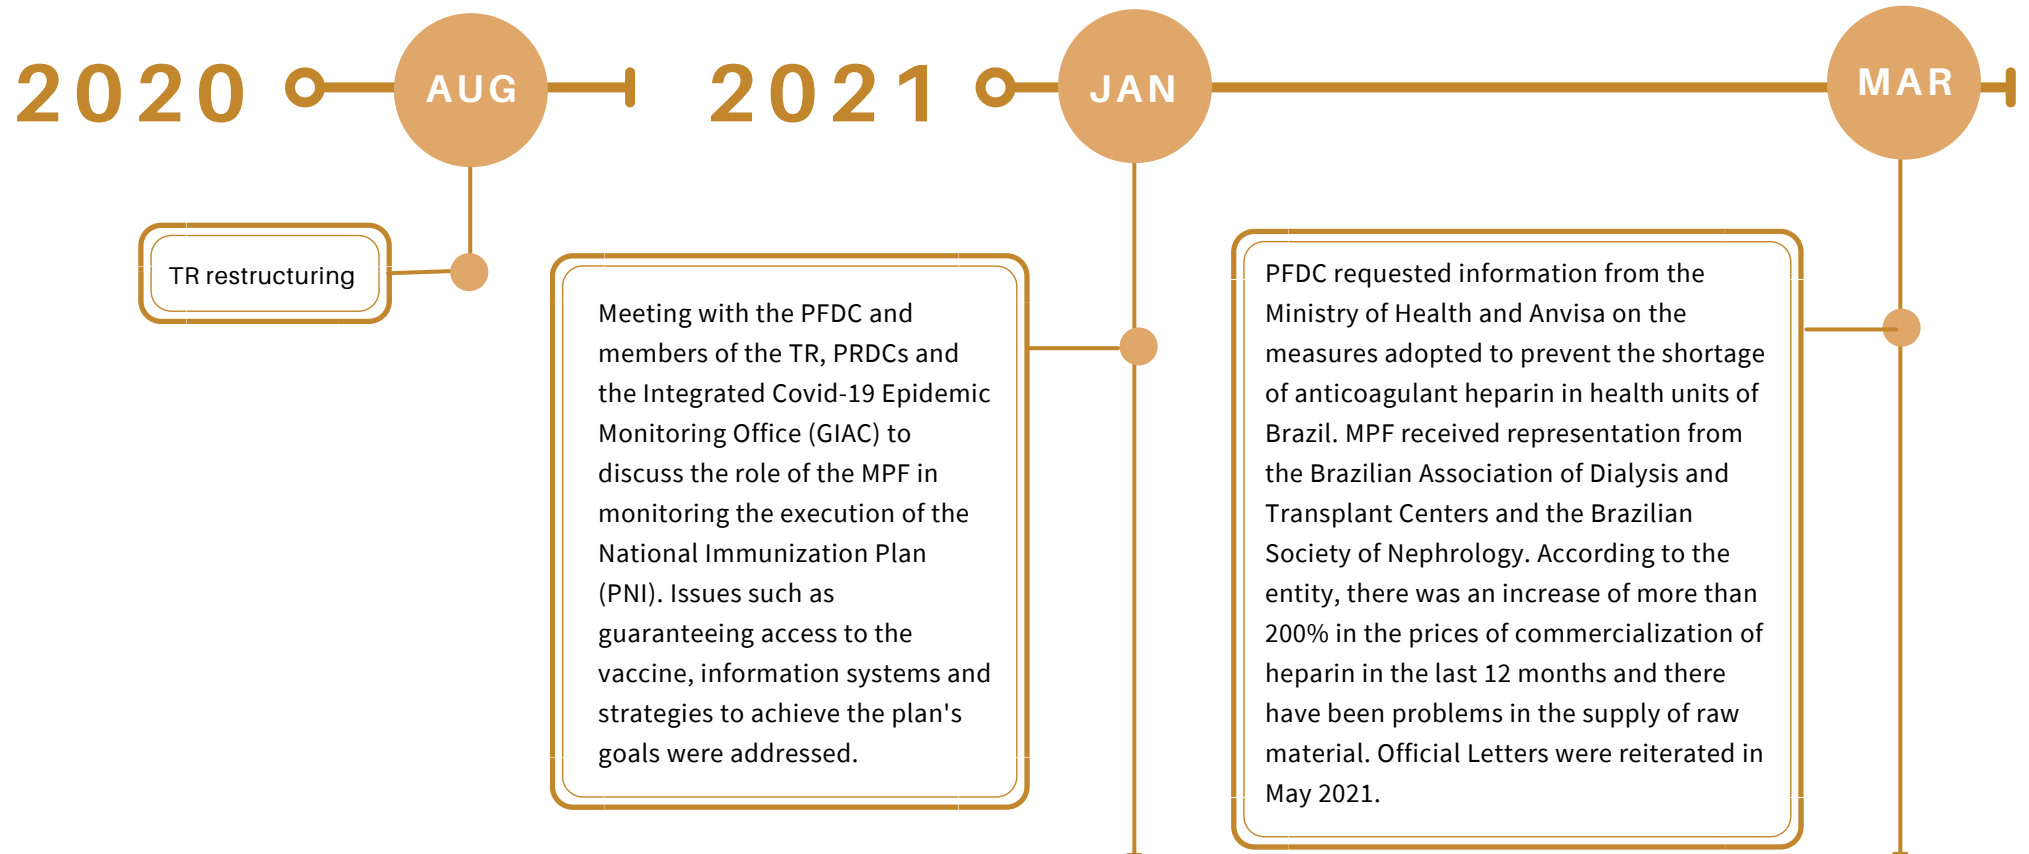

The activation of the Judiciary for the resolution of demands for medicines had an important milestone with the decision of STF, with general repercussion, regarding to Topic nº 793. According to the Court's understanding, the responsibility for supplying medicines to citizens should be shared between the Union, States and Municipalities. Thus, these spheres of public power, individually or jointly, can be legally sued to provide medication to a person in need.

Based on this reality, Pharmaceutical Assistance and High-Cost Medicine TR works to guarantee and expand the population's access to medicines, especially high-cost medicines, within the SUS, as an essential instrument for an adequate care policy.

TR has also followed the measures adopted by the National Immunization Program (PNI) in relation to the fight against the new coronavirus, together with the PRDCs and the Integrated Covid-19 Epidemic Monitoring Office (GIAC) of the Brazilian MP.

PFDC sent Technical Note n° 4/2021/PFDC/MPF to the Senate on PL n° 948/2021, which facilitates the purchase and application of vaccines against Covid-19 by legal entities governed by private law. According to the note, current legislation allows the purchase of immunizers, but requires that vaccines be donated to SUS in its entirety. When presenting several criteria that demonstrate the risk of approval of the PL, PFDC considered that the matter had no potential to accelerate the immunization of the population. The agency highlighted that the law device contradicted the Federal Constitution, the basic premises of the SUS, in addition to interfering in the analysis of safety, quality and effectiveness of vaccines, by Anvisa.

The group of regional representatives of patients with Ehlers-Danlos Syndrome (EDS) presented to PFDC a representation requesting the "inclusion of rare diseases in the vaccination program against Covid-19", considering, in particular, the worsening of the "Brazilian health system, in which there was a deficit of ICUs and a risk of lack of essential medicines for humanized and adequate treatment support". As a result, PFDC, following the suggestion of the TR, sent an official letter to the National Health Surveillance Secretariat, the Ministry of Health responsible for the National Vaccination Operational Plan against Covid-19, to clarify the existence of inclusion of people with rare diseases on the plan. The MS responded that it employed pre-approved strategies within the framework of the Tripartite Intermanager Commission (CIT) meetings for the distribution of Covid-19 vaccines. According to the MS, all priority groups were served following vaccination by age group and there was a forecast of vaccination for all those over 18 years of age until the month of September 2021.

Guidelines

Simply put, human trafficking consists of recruiting, moving or harboring people with the aim of exploiting them through some type of coercion, deception or abuse of authority. This exploitation can be of a sexual nature, servitude, slavery or even for the removal of organs.

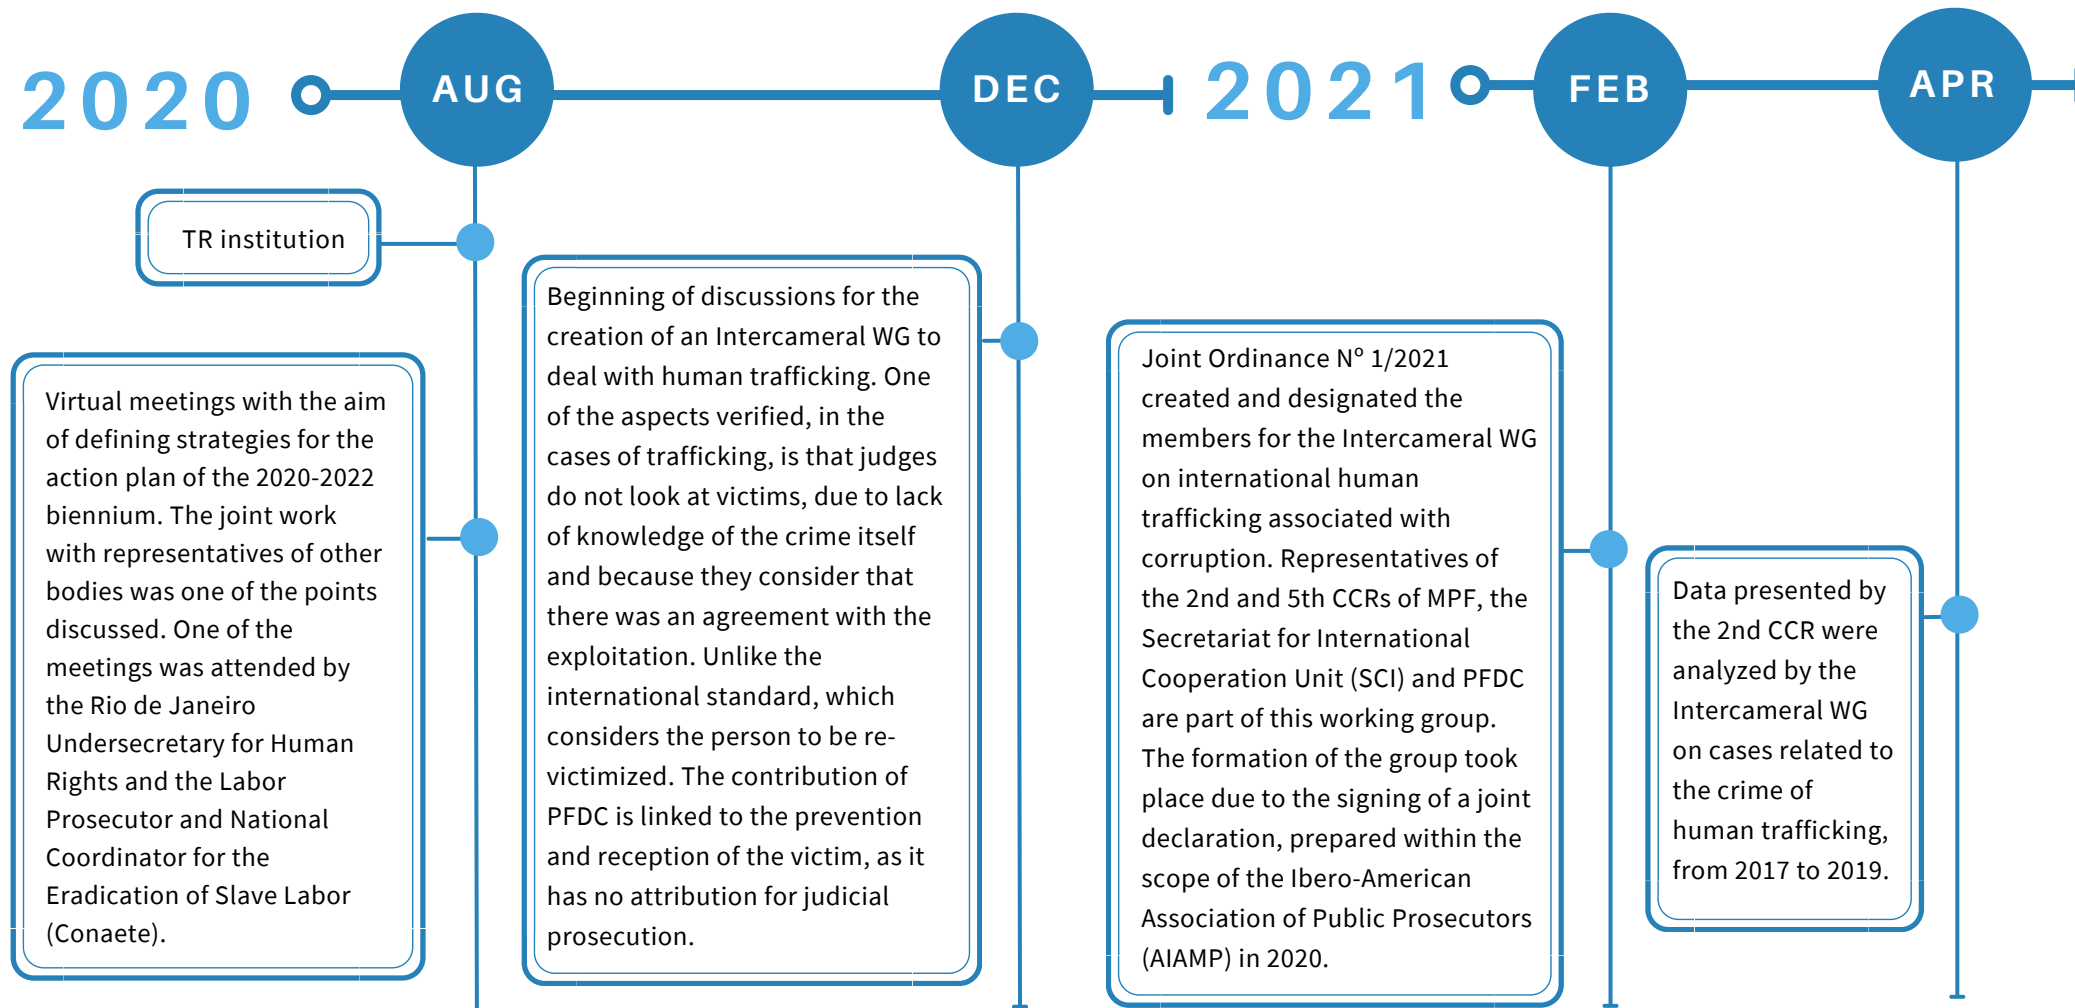

The description of this crime includes suffering and degrading treatment. Victims are reduced to the condition of objects and even suppliers of spare organs to other people, being stripped of their own humanity. It is almost a consensus that most victims of this crime are targeted because of their socioeconomic vulnerability. Such people are often aware of the risks involved in offers from recruiters, but, for lack of alternatives, they end up accepting them.

When statistics from the Dial 100 service (human rights violations) were used, between 2017 and 2019, there was a preponderance of complaints regarding the sexual exploitation of victims, followed by illegal adoption and exploitation of slave labor.

Due to the whole context presented, the problem of human trafficking deserves increased attention from the public authorities, especially the PFDC, as it is a serious threat to the exercise of human rights. In this sense, the Human Trafficking TR has as a guideline the aim to strengthen public policies to combat human trafficking (Law n° 13.344/2016), in a joint and articulated way with public institutions and civil society entities. This action takes place through guidelines, inter-institutional dialogues and debates on prevention and victim reception mechanisms.

The Intercomunal WG met with Borja Díaz and Ana Linda Solano, from EUROsocial+, experts on the topic. Among the challenges identified were the integration of priorities, the development of investigations in abbreviated form, the strengthening of information gathering, the carrying out of proactive investigations and the training of the various actors involved. During the event, experts from EUROsocial+ reported that the Declaration on the World Day against Trafficking in 2020 recognized the role of corruption associated to the crime of human trafficking. The 2020 Consultation on the UN Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women (CEDAW) revealed the need to investigate the conduct of public officials in investigations of human trafficking. There are also recommendations from AIAMP and United Against Corruption (UNGASS), in 2021, in the same direction. Other important information presented by the experts included the preparation of a “Guide on corruption and gender”, within the scope of the study on “Gender and anti-corruption in Latin America and the Caribbean”; in addition to the development of tools, such as a risk map of corruption and human trafficking.

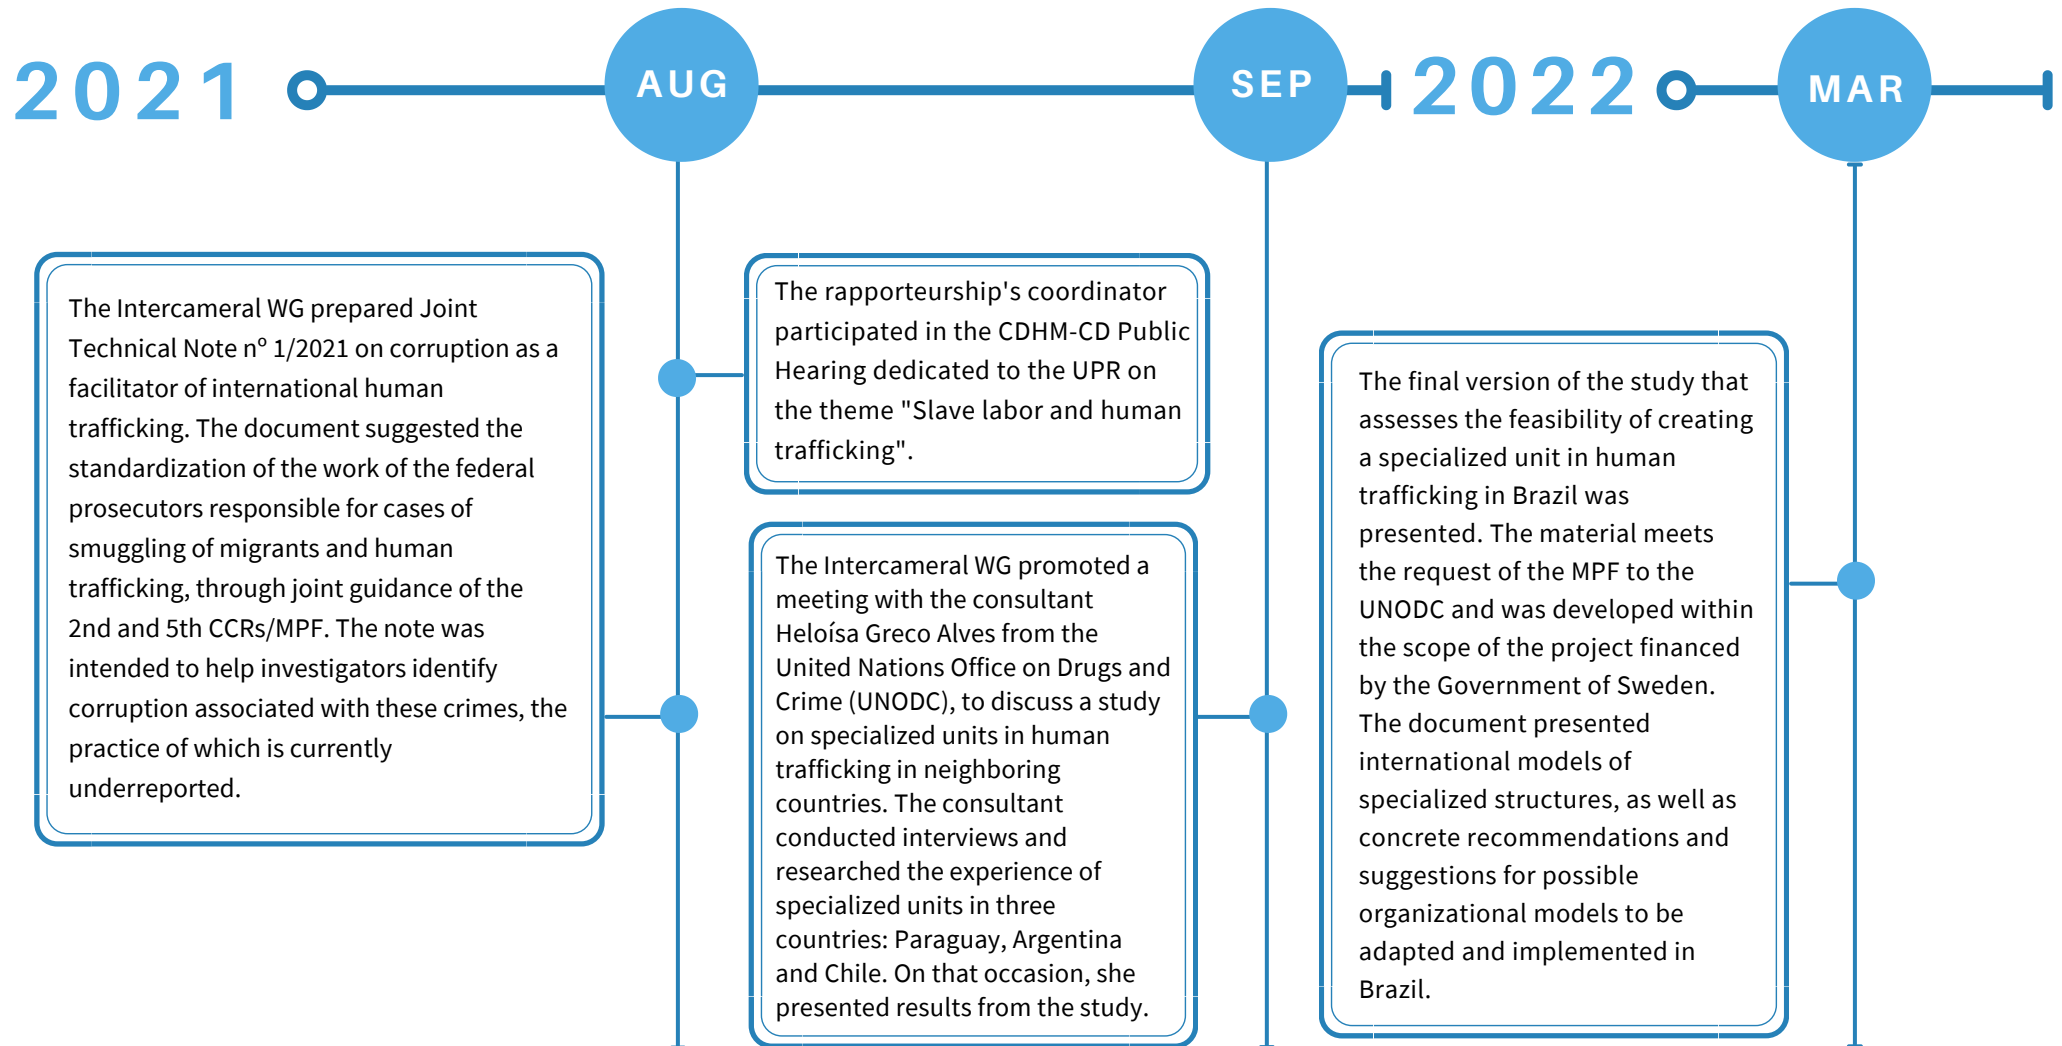

JUN

At the suggestion of the Intercomunal WG, the MPF participated in an international campaign on corruption associated with human trafficking. The action was promoted, together with EUROsocial+ by the Network of Prosecutors Against Corruption and the Network of Prosecutors Against Human Trafficking (Redtram), both from AIAMP. A series of reports were produced to raise awareness of the connection between human trafficking and corruption, with the support of the MPF's Secretariat of Social Communication (Secom).

ACTIONS TAKEN

4. INTERNATIONAL PERFORMANCE

PFDC maintains permanent dialogue with international organizations and institutions, given that Brazil is a signatory to several treaties and conventions on human rights.

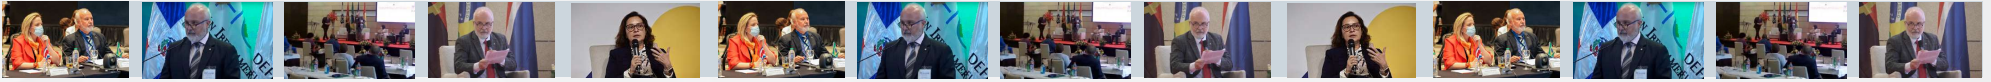

In addition to the exchange of experiences, this cooperation promotes the collective construction of work tools with a view to the fulfillment of human rights. Among the partners are the Inter-American Commission and Court of Human Rights (IACHR and Inter-American Court of Human Rights) of the Organization of American States (OAS) and, within the framework of the United Nations (UN), the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights (OHCHR), UN Women, the United Nations Population Fund (UNFPA) and the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR).

The work also involves articulation in regional networks and forums on human rights, such as the Ibero-American Federation of Ombudsmen (FIO), the Human Rights Network of the Community of Portuguese-Speaking Countries (CPLP) and the Latin American Network for the Prevention of Genocide and Massive Atrocities at the Auschwitz Institute.

PFDC has encouraged, through public notices, the adoption of international agreements related to human rights. One of them highlights the importance of Brazil ratifying the Escazú Agreement, which deals with access to information, public participation and access to justice in environmental matters in Latin America and the Caribbean.

In another note, PFDC defended the conclusion of the internalization process of the Inter-American Convention against Racism, Racial Discrimination and Related Forms of Intolerance, which, despite having been ratified in May 2021 by the Parliament, would only reach full legal effectiveness after the presidential decree of promulgation. In January of this year, the Executive finally promulgated the convention (Decree nº 10.932/2022).

4. INTERNATIONAL PERFORMANCE

In January and June 2021, the Federal Ombudsman, Carlos Alberto Vilhena, met with members of the CPLP's Network of Ombudsmen. In the first meeting, there was the approval of a joint declaration of solidarity with Brazil due to the more than 200 thousand deaths resulting from Covid-19. In the following meeting, the authorities participated in the webinar “The organs of the State administration and the duty of cooperation with the ombudsman”.

The Substitute Federal Ombudsman, Ana Borges Coêlho Santos, in October 2021, attended the "International Meeting of Defenders of the People - Migration and Refuge", in which the creation of a common front to deal with the humanitarian crisis experienced by migrants in transit across the continent was discussed. The meeting was held in Cartagena, Colombia. In her presentation, Ana Borges spoke of the importance of welcoming migrants and of establishing effective public policies that take care of these vulnerable populations.

In November, Vilhena attended the XXV Meeting of Networks, the General Assembly and the FIO Congress, in Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic. In his speech to the panel Good Governance and Basic Service Access, he defended the construction of a strategic agenda related to educational policies in the context of the Covid-19 pandemic. On the occasion, the participants signed three announcements addressed to public authorities in Latin America and the Caribbean, addressing topics such as the refugee crisis, the increase in gender violence during the pandemic and the situation of the prison population in Ecuador.

In Luanda, capital of Angola, in April 2022, a series of activities took place by the Network of Ombudsmen, National Human Rights Commissions and other National Human Rights Institutions of the CPLP, with the presence of Vilhena. One of the network's objectives is to strengthen the National Human Rights Institutions (NHRI) within the scope of the CPLP member countries. Although Brazil does not have an INDH yet, the Federal Ombudsman, a position established by Complementary Law N° 75/1993, plays the role of national ombudsman, acting, ex officio or through representation, in the defense of constitutional rights.

5. COMMUNICATION AND DIALOGUE WITH SOCIETY

PFDC has been guided by an increasingly effective communication with its various audiences. For this purpose, it institutionalized the Citizenship Encounters Project, which offers training on the most diverse topics of interest to non-governmental organizations and to society in general. From November 2020 to May 2022, 31 webinars were organized, which had over 16.000 views on YouTube.

It is important to highlight that webinars of the Human Rights and Business cycle gained a new format, through the edition of podcasts. In addition to newsletters, PFDC has invested in the use of Twitter for more immediate communication and in the expansion of a partnership with the MPF Social Communication Department in the use of Instagram and Facebook profiles, which have 95 thousand and 537 thousand followers, respectively. Some numbers that seek to translate the effort made by PFDC in its relationship with society are below.

PFDC's goal has been to promote the dissemination of themes related to its work on human rights on MPF's social networks. Two hashtags were included in posts related to citizen's rights: #pfdcsystem #humanrights. This initiative has strengthened its participation within the MPF's Social Communication System. On the website www.mpf.mp.br/pfdc, from May 2020 to May 2022, 247 notes were published, in order to provide transparency to the actions developed within the scope of the PFDC.

7. ACTUACIONES NAOP Y PRDC

Created in December 2012, through PGR Ordinance n° 653, the Operational Support Centers for the PFDC (NAOPs) work in each Federal Circuit Prosecutor and aim to decentralize activities, integrating human rights activities within the scope of the MPF. Among the attributions of the Naops, the competence to carry out the review of decisions to decline attribution related to civil inquiries, administrative procedures and informative pieces, in addition to settling attribution conflicts within the scope of the respective region, stand out.

It is also the role of Naops to monitor public policies in the area of human rights, maintain permanent contact and exchange with public and private entities dedicated to the promotion, protection, defense and study in the area of human rights and citizenship. NAOPs are composed by three full members and up to three alternate members, elected by the members of the respective Federal Circuit Prosecutor (PRRs) for a two-year term, with the possibility of reappointment.

PRDCs, present in each of the States, act in the defense of constitutional rights such as freedom, equality, dignity, health, education, social assistance, accessibility, public security, the right to information and free expression, among others. Unlike PFDC, they have both judicial and extrajudicial attribution.

As PFDC, the PRDCs also receive complaints that are forwarded, if applicable, to other competent bodies.

The selection of prosecutors for each PRDC is by appointment of the PGR, the term lasts two years and can be renewed. In 2020, PGR/MPF Ordinance n° 841, of September 30, returned to the PFDC the attribution of reviewing the promotions of filing civil investigations, administrative procedures and informative pieces that are based, in whole or in part, on the execution of TAC, allowing the dissemination of good practices throughout national territory.

In the following pages, you will check the main initiatives developed within the scope of Naops and PRDCs.

Annually, more than 2,000 procedures are processed in the NAOPs on the most diverse topics, among the most demanded are the provision of public services, constitutional guarantees, land policies, tendering rules and social benefits. From 2019 to 2022, 8,427 procedures were distributed and 9,330 resolved, remaining 418*.

In this amount there are 252 that refer to Covid-19, an issue considered a matter of high complexity, great impact and repercussion.

There is a specific extrajudicial procedure aimed at implementing, standardizing and monitoring, in the states of Rio de Janeiro and Espírito Santo, the rules and policies that guarantee the supply of water, sewage and electricity during the state of emergency caused by Covid-19, in particular to the population living in slums and neighborhoods with a low presence of public facilities, regardless of the payment situation.

Some NAOPs, such as the 1st and 3rd Region ones, also monitored a coordinated action aimed at increasing the number of children vaccinated with polio in several municipalities, whose vaccine rates were equal to or less than 50%.

A panel with management information, prepared with business intelligence (BI), is available for consultation by the MPF's internal public.
